SIGNS OF ABNORMALITIES DETECTED IN FOETUS

HC raps RML doc panel after it asks woman to continue 27-wk pregnancy

Sohini Ghosh New Delhi, May 6

THE DELHI High Court Wednesday quashed the order of the RML Hospital in New Delhi after doctors on its medical board, which looked into cases of medical termination of pregnancy, failed to give a clear opinion on whether it was feasible to terminate a woman's 27-week pregnancy, given that abnormalities have been detected in the foetus.

Justice Purushottam Kaur, who on Tuesday directed AIMS New Delhi to examine the 29-year-old woman and to clearly opine on the feasibility of termination of her pregnancy and its consequences.

The court also asked the doctor to clearly opine on the feasibility of termination of her pregnancy and its consequences. The court also asked the doctor to clearly opine on the feasibility of termination of her pregnancy and its consequences.

abnormalities, endangering her physical and mental health. On May 4, when the plea came up for hearing before Justice Purushottam Kaur, a medical board had been formed to look into the matter. The court then directed AIMS New Delhi to examine the 29-year-old woman and to clearly opine on the feasibility of termination of pregnancy and the necessary consequences.

The board's report, submitted to the court on Wednesday, however, failed to give a clear opinion on the feasibility and consequences of the termination. It concluded: "The patient has been advised to continue expectant management according to standard guidelines. Patient is advised to continue the pregnancy."

Justice Saurav, pulling up the board, recorded: "There seems to be complete disregard to statutory mandate under the

WHAT THE LAW SAYS

MEDICAL TERMINATION OF PREGNANCY (MTP) Act allows termination of pregnancy up to 24 weeks subject to opinion of 2 registered medical practitioners that continuance of the pregnancy would involve a life risk for the mother or cause grave injury to her physical or mental health.

THE ACT provides that the length of pregnancy won't apply in cases of substantial foetal abnormalities diagnosed by a Medical Board.

MTP Act and guidelines thereunder by the chief of doctors. The court order required the medical board to opine regarding feasibility of termination of pregnancy and the necessary consequences. It was specifically directed that the board bear in mind all aspects as has been noted in the petition. The petitioner has categorically stated that the termination of the pregnancy is necessitated as there exists several fetal abnormalities. The board comprised Dr. Preeti Sainia and Dr. Jaya Chawla from RML's Department of Obstetrics, Dr. Sarita Jhawa from department of Radio diagnosis and Imaging, Dr. Bhawna from the Department of Neonatology and Dr. Alina Chandra from the Department of Psychiatry.

Noting the risk of death of the doctors who submitted the petition, Justice Kaur noted, "There is no consideration bestowed by the medical board to these aspects. The court thus deprecates the act of the doctors who examined the petitioner in AIMS and RML Hospital... In the future it is wanted that the court directives must be complied with in letter and spirit."

Justice Saurav orally remarked that the Supreme Court has "very clearly said that reproductive autonomy has to be put on a higher pedestal". Addressing the Centre's counsel, Justice Kaur said orally, "Either they (the medical board) have to say yes (for termination) or they disagree (with private doctors) opinion suggesting termination... We have to say something regarding your doctors' conduct and we have to refer the matter to Delhi Medical Council because they have abdicated from their statutory responsibilities."

Initially being treated at a private hospital, mid-March, around the 21st week of pregnancy, a scan had documented severely restricted foetal growth. By early April, the abnormality was further confirmed, and by April-end, the woman made an emergency visit to RML Hospital, where she was told that the placenta had severely restricted blood flow to the foetus. A private foetal medicine specialist then confirmed that the survival of the foetus was gravely uncertain.

SEVERAL DEADLINES HAVE BEEN MISSED

Bhairon Marg Underpass 5 likely to open in Feb next year

Express News Service New Delhi, May 6

Deadlines & delays

AFTER SEVERAL missed deadlines and delays, the last leg of the Pragati Maidan Integrated Transit Corridor — Bhairon Marg Underpass — which passes beneath an active railway line is likely to be completed by February next year. Public Works Department (PWD) minister Parvash Sahib Singh said that the work on the stretch has been resumed and is going in full swing. "Work has got better pace... We have also got an in-principle NOC from the Indian Railways. Trains are likely to be diverted for a few days so that the work is completed on time," he said.

The 10-metre-long Underpass was supposed to be completed and inaugurated along with other underpasses on this stretch as part of the Pragati Maidan Integrated Transit Corridor redevelopment project. However, owing to an active railway line over the stretch ing this, the PWD proposed a 'cut and cover' method, which involves cutting the railway track and pulling the track concrete and leveling it up. This process required a period of 40 to 60 days during which the railway line had to remain shut. The Indian Railways refused to grant permission for the same. Later, the PWD decided to switch to the 'cut-in-situ' technology.

Once completed, the stretch will bring relief to commuters travelling between Bhairon Marg, Central Delhi and ISBT Kashmere Gate, Ring Road and Sarai Kale Khan; ease congestion around Pragati Maidan and ITO corridor; improve East-Central connectivity and ensure smoother traffic flow during major national and international events hosted at the ITO complex.

Currently, traffic is being managed with temporary diversions and barricading. In February 2027 is the new deadline. FINAL HURDLE was cleared after an NOC was received from Indian Railways. WORK ON project pending since 2023.

and fluctuations in the Yamuna water level, it was delayed. In 2023, the work was halted after precast concrete boxes, pushed beneath the active railway line using a 'box pushing' method, sank due to flooding caused by the Yamuna. Follow-

Now, automated e-challan system across IGI Airport road network

Express News Service New Delhi, May 6

TO STRENGTHEN traffic discipline and improve road safety across the Delhi Metro International Airport Road Network (DMIR-ARN), the Delhi Metro Rail Corporation (DMRC), in collaboration with the Delhi Traffic Police, has rolled out an automated e-challan enforcement system across the airport road network.

The e-challan system will be deployed at high-traffic points like Central Spine Road, Cargo Terminal area, Rangpuri, Central Hotel Junction, Aerocity, NSI Junction and Terminal 1 exit road. This initiative is a significant step towards technology-driven enforcement in Delhi. With ANPR-based monitoring, DMRC will ensure compliance, ensure uniform enforcement, and enhance road safety across the IGI Airport road network, said Shobhit Saxena, DCP Traffic, New Delhi.

The system also ensures greater transparency and efficiency in issuing e-challans. It

MAN KILLED IN UTTAM NAGAR ON HOLI 'Of 20 named in chargesheet, 10 assaulted youth, rest provoked'

Alok Singh New Delhi, May 6

CUT OF 20 people allegedly involved in the murder of 26-year-old Tarun Purulia in Uttam Nagar on Holi this March, at least 12 were named in a chargesheet filed by the police. The chargesheet also named 10 youth who assaulted the victim and 10 who provoked him, according to the Delhi Police probe. The Indian Express has learnt.

According to the police, the murder was not premeditated but a result of a sudden outburst of anger triggered after an 11-year-old relative of Tarun threw a water balloon from the second floor of a house that hit a woman. An argument broke out between the two families. During the exchange, the woman allegedly used derogatory and caste remarks against Tarun's family and threatened to throw a scuffle. More relatives of the accused joined in and attacked Tarun's family, the probe suggested, police said.

On Sunday, the Delhi Police filed a 550-page chargesheet before a city court in connection with the murder on March 4, naming 20 accused. Including two minors. Police said two of them are still absconding. The police have built the case heavily relying upon forensic statements of eyewitnesses, who were named as key prosecution witnesses, sources said. To corroborate this, the police have placed evidence related to the post-mortem examination report, Call Detail Records and Internet Protocol (IP) Records, sources confirmed. Forensic reports, which are still awaited, may be part of the supplementary chargesheet in due time, they said.

During the scuffle, the accused allegedly tried to enter Tarun's house, police said. Another 10 youth, arrested in Tarun's return home, the accused surrounded him, and at least 10 of them attacked him, leaving him critically injured, police said. While the accused fled the spot after the attack, Tarun was taken to a hospital where he succumbed to his injuries the next day, police said. Police later arrested 18 people and apprehended two juveniles. Of the 20 accused named in the chargesheet, 17 are related to each other, while three are family friends, police also said. They added that the matter is still under investigation and efforts are on the way to secure arrest.

Subway to link Delhi Airport terminals 2 & 3

Express News Service New Delhi, May 6

FOR EASIER, faster, and more comfortable transfer between Terminal 2 and Terminal 3, a new pedestrian subway is being built at Delhi's Indira Gandhi International Airport. The subway is expected to be opened by the end of 2026.

Currently, passengers have to walk through the Delhi Metro station, at least T3 and either walk or take a shuttle to T2, wait for a shuttle and then transfer to T3.

operation and maintenance costs of the subway, including electrical and mechanical aspects, lift and escalator, Automatic Fare Collection (AFC) systems, CCTV surveillance, security and PA systems. The subway will be constructed using the 'box-pushing' method, said officials. In this method, vertical excavation or large-scale digging is not required. It is much faster than the conventional cut and cover technology used generally for subway construction, said officials.

The pedestrian subway will enable direct access to T2 from the Metro station, ensuring seamless connectivity and faster transfer for passengers.
